LONG-FORGOTTEN ORCHARD PRODUCING SPLENDID FRUIT

Deciduous Trees Planted Long Ago a Success— Apples, Plums, Pears, Apricots, Cherries and Peaches Better Than Coast Product.

It has long been a matter of spirited discussion—the fitness of Hawaii for the growth of deciduous fruits. The theorist and optimist declares that they ought to grow here and there is no reason why they shouldn't, to which the man of practical experience replies "that is all very well—but they simply will not!"

May I make a contribution of fact on the side of the theorist?

At one time in the history of the Hamuula Sheep Ranch—some twenty odd years ago—the headquarters of the ranch were transferred from Kalaieha, on the south side of Mauna Kea to Keanakolu on the east side, immediately above Ookala, at an elevation of about 5000 feet. During the occupation of Keanakolu a small orchard of perhaps an acre in extent was planted, consisting of apples, plums, pears, apricots, cherries and peaches—two or three varieties of each. The primacy of Keanakolu was shortlived, the place was soon abandoned, and with it the orchard which ran to weeds and long grass, but fortunately was kept fenced. Neglected and forgotten, the trees, however, kept on growing, and of late years there have been fabulous stories afloat of trees there laden with delicious fruit. While in Hamakua recently I heard these appetizing tales of wondrous things, and reviewing my earlier knowledge of the place and the orchard—concerning which I had been as skeptical as anyone—I made my way thither. Unfortunately we were too late for the plums and too early for the apples, pears and cherries, but the fruit was there in abundance and apparently of excellent quality. The apples were mature enough to be excellent for cooking, and an occasional one ripe enough to eat out of hand. The commendable quality of them was character, which is wanting in so much of the imported fruit.

We were told that it was an off year—comparatively a small crop, but the trees were as full as they could comfortably bear. Although unpruned and uncultivated the trees were thrifty and healthy, apparently quite free from all disease.

In addition to these orchard fruits there were bushels of Logan berries just beginning to ripen; in fact, the Logan berry thrives so well, that I am afraid some day it may become a serious pest in that region. The striking success of this venture in fruit-growing suggests important possibilities for thousands of acres on the uplands of Hawaii and Maui.

SUPERVISORS AGREE WILSON NEEDS ROOM

Road Supervisor Wilson may get some more room. A committee of Supervisors examined his crowded quarters in the City Hall yesterday and agreed that something must be done at once. Even now the office is so crowded that business is transacted under difficulties and Wilson has had to leave some of his furniture in the hall.

Andrade will probably have to move out, as there is not another available room in the building. As Andrade has an office at the Police Station, the Supervisors will probably instruct him to

ANOTHER WOMAN CURED

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Gardiner, Maine.—"I have been a great sufferer from organic troubles and a severe female weakness. The doctor said I would have to go to the hospital for an operation, but I could not bear to think of it. I decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Sanative Wash—and was entirely cured after three months' use of them."—Mrs. S. A. WILLIAMS, R. F. D. No. 14, Box 39, Gardiner, Me.

No woman should submit to a surgical operation, which may mean death, until she has given Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made exclusively from roots and herbs, a fair trial.

This famous medicine for women has for thirty years proved to be the most valuable tonic and renewer of the female organism. Women residing in almost every city and town in the United States bear willing testimony to the wonderful virtue of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It cures female ills, and creates radiant, buoyant female health. If you are ill, for your own sake as well as those you love, give it a trial.

Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., invites all sick women to write her for advice. Her advice is free, and always helpful.

move over there and turn the room which he at present occupies over to the road department.

When Andrade was given permission to occupy an office in the City Hall, it was with understanding that it should be vacated at any time that it might be needed for other purposes.
